John 10:27 (NIV)

*"My sheep listen to my voice;
I know them, and they follow me."*

Hearing When God Speaks

John 10: 27 "My sheep listen to my voice; I know them, and they follow me."

I came across a true story of an Englishman and his encounter with a Muslim man while walking in the country. The Englishman wanted to share the Gospel with this man but knew little of Muslim beliefs. The two men talked as they walked and agreed they would each share their beliefs with one another. The Muslim went first and dominated the time of sharing. The Englishman asked the Holy Spirit how to share his faith with the Muslim man. "Do you consider your god as your father who speaks?" asked the Englishman.

"Certainly not," replied the Muslim man.

"That is one of the big differences between your god and my God. I consider my God as my Father who speaks to me personally."

"You cannot prove that," stated the Muslim man.

The Englishman again prayed, "Lord, how do I prove this to this man?" A few moments later the two men began walking toward two young ladies on the other side of the road coming toward them. As they approached, the Englishman spoke to the ladies and made small conversation. He said to one woman, "I believe you are a nurse, is that correct?"

The woman was startled that a man whom she had never met had just informed her of her occupation. "How would you know that? I have never met you before," she questioned. He replied, "I asked my Father and He told me." The Muslim had his proof.

Many of us do not hear God's voice because we do not believe He speaks or desires to speak to us. In order to hear, we must listen. In order to listen, we must believe that He speaks. Prayer is a two-way communication, when we pray we need to be still and hear God's reply. Can I encourage you to ask the Lord for a listening ear so that others might know that you have a heavenly Father who speaks.

God Bless Terrence Baxter
